Amelna Workplace is a founding-stage benefit. Only a limited number of organizations will join as Founding Workplace Partners.

Behind every employee is a household.

Every employee leaves work and returns to another full-time role.

- Planning meals
- Coordinating schedules
- Communicating with a partner
- Supporting children
- Managing groceries
- Tracking budgets
- Remembering appointments
- Caring for family

These aren't separate responsibilities. They're all connected.

When household planning becomes fragmented, the invisible work often falls on one person.

Organizations have invested in supporting wellbeing at work. Amelna believes the next opportunity is supporting wellbeing at home.

> "Because employees don't experience work and home separately — they experience one life."

Household wellbeing begins with household understanding.

Most planning tools solve one problem. Meal planning. Budgeting. Scheduling. Shopping. But households don't operate in separate categories — they operate as one connected system.

Amelna learns how each household works. As it learns routines, schedules, preferences, budgets, pantry items, and family dynamics, planning becomes more personalized and more connected over time.

The more Amelna understands how a household works, the more valuable it becomes.

More than an app. A connected household experience.

Four outcomes that change how households experience the week ahead.

01

Learn Your Household

AI adapts to routines, preferences, schedules and priorities. The more it learns, the more useful it becomes. Planning feels less like work and more like having a knowledgeable household partner.

02

Plan Ahead

Meals, groceries, schedules and budgets work together as one connected plan — not four separate apps. Every decision informs the next one automatically.

03

Share the Load

Partners stay connected through shared planning and visibility. Both people see the same household plan, updating in real time. No more duplicated effort or missed handoffs.

04

Grow Over Time

The more Amelna understands a household, the more valuable it becomes. Planning improves every week, automatically, without extra effort from employees.

> "The goal isn't to manage more. It's to make planning feel easier to share."

A practical employee wellbeing benefit.

Four pillars that make Amelna Workplace the right benefit for modern organizations.

Household Wellbeing

Support employees beyond the workplace. Recognize that the invisible work of running a household — meals, budgets, schedules, childcare — affects focus, energy, and performance at work every single day.

Practical AI

AI employees actually use every week. Not a one-time wellness tool — a system that learns and improves alongside each household. The longer they use it, the more valuable it becomes.

Simple Implementation

No integrations. No employee account management. No administrative burden. Organizations receive redemption codes, share them however they communicate, and Amelna handles the rest.

Employee Privacy

Organizations never access household information. Employees own their data entirely. The benefit is access to a tool, not visibility into how people live. Trust is built in, by design.

Available for organizations of all sizes, from 10 to 500+ employees. Contact us for package options.

Simple to set up. Immediately valuable.

Getting started with Amelna Workplace takes days, not months.

1

Organization selects a Workplace package

Choose the plan that fits your team size. Packages are designed for organizations of all sizes, from small teams to large enterprises.

2
